PROFIT BY STRIKE

LOS ANGELES VIA EAGLE ROCK IS NOW THE POPULAR ROUTE SAY RAILROAD OFFICIALS

Officials of the Glendale-Montrose Railway report that the strike on the Pacific Electric has greatly increased travel on their Eagle Rock line, many people going to Los Angeles that way and making connections there with the yellow car line, on which service has not been interrupted.

Next Monday work will be resumed at the park which the company is improving at La Crescenta which was interrupted by the necessity of shifting the labor force to Glendale to build the double curve of the track at Broadway and Glendale avenue, required by the city.

The company is also building a car barn at Montrose on property that formerly belonged to the Bentley-Schoeneman Company and was used by them for a lumber yard and which has been acquired by the railroad.

DR. DAUGHERTY REJOICES IN SON'S COMING

Robert Daugherty, wife and little daughter arrived from New York Saturday evening, stopping over night in Pasadena, where Robert is to have charge of the Engineering Department in Throop Institute of Technology. They attended the first thing to the difficult task of finding a suitable home to live in and succeeded in finding apartments. They were visited Sunday by his father, Dr. J. H. Daugherty, and Mrs. Daugherty, of 700 East Harvard, Glendale, and have visited here since then, though the young teacher is very busy getting his department in shape for the opening of the fall term. It is like coming back home to him, for he graduated from Pasadena High, then went to Stanford, where he was an instructor for a year after his graduation, having Dr. David Starr Jordan's son under his charge. He went from there to Cornell for six years, and then to Rensselaer for two years, coming from the latter school to Pasadena.

PATIENCE EXHAUSTED

PEOPLE DETERMINED THAT PRICE BOOSTING OF NECESSITIES MUST CEASE

Marvelous has been the patience of the American people in the face of constantly rising prices, though they felt that there must be a great deal of profiteering somewhere. When informed of the imminence of further raises in shoe prices they could hardly believe it because assured that the supply of hides in the country was never greater. When told that sugar and other groceries must continually aviate, they submitted, though feeling assured, from government reports, that there was no justification for these continual price boosts and that somewhere along the line of middlemen between producer and consumer there was some one who was making an unlawful profit. But the people are aroused at last and are insisting that the light of pitiless publicity be thrown upon the manipulations of the food barons. Glendale people are loyal to the home merchants, because they know these men and women are really making a far smaller per cent. of profit than when goods were much cheaper. But they are not averse to taking advantage of food and clothing bargains when offered, as witness the eager response to every notice of lowered prices. Stocks of food placed on sale by the government are sold out in a few minutes and the parcel post sales of food are taken advantage of by thousands. A Glendale store sold 756 pounds of bacon at a little less than cost recently, almost meeting the government price, and it was disposed of in five hours. The public is becoming so restive under almost unbearably high prices that further boosts will hardly be tolerated.

NEW FIRST M. E. CHURCH BUILDING FOR L. A.

The First Methodist church building and lot at Sixth and Hill streets, Los Angeles, and two adjoining lots facing on Hill street, have been purchased by a big theatre company for a million dollars and a magnificent playhouse will be erected on this site, 154x240 feet, to cost nearly $2,000,000. The First Methodist congregation will build at Eighth and Hill where the Abbottsford Inn stands, which property they purchased several years ago for $300,000. They are planning on a building to cost half a million.

SENSIBLE WORK

W. E. HEWITT AND EZRA PARKER APPROVE FLOOD CONTROL PLANS

Before a decision was reached in regard to work to be done in the Verdugo Wash, Captain Smith, one of the engineers for county flood control work under Mr. Reagan, visited Glendale and invited a group of property owners and business men in this city to accompany him on a trip to the San Gabriel Wash to inspect methods worked out there, especially the brush walls to turn floods such as were described in the Evening News of Tuesday. Ezra Parker, who was of the party, said the committee after viewing the work was perfectly willing to sign and did sign a recommendation that the county adopt that plan, as far as feasible, for controlling the waters of Verdugo Wash. He said the feature that most impressed them was the simplicity of the plan and the materials used which would make it possible for work to begin right away. Where it can be used the iron pipe is highly effective and easy to drive as compared with the wooden piling and there is plenty of it to be had. The wooden piles, which must be employed to some extent at the turns, are hard to get and very expensive. Time is the essence of such contracts just now for every dollar's worth of protective work that is completed before fall rains begin may save the county $2 of expense from floods. W. E. Hewitt, who is an expert along those lines having been engineer of the city of Detroit before coming to Glendale and establishing his laundry business, also approved the control scheme.

SERVICES APPRECIATED

Comrade T. M. Barrett is proudly displaying a beautiful gold souvenir badge presented to him by Jason Shepard Camp, Veterans of Southern California, in appreciation of his splendid work as Commander the past year. Veterans who attended the encampment recently closed say it was the best one ever held, and they attribute this in a large measure to the untiring efforts of their commander to make it so. Mr. Barrett feels that the badge typifies the regard in which his comrades hold him and so prizes it very highly.

STORY HOUR AT LIBRARY

A very successful story hour was provided at the Public Library on Harvard street this morning when Miss Muriel Theobald and Miss Alice Green, members of the library training class, told two of Annie Fellows Johnston's stories to the sixty or more children who gathered for the treat. One of the stories was "The Legend of the Bleeding Heart," the other was "The Gate of the Giant Scissors." After the story-telling was over the girls showed the little tots pictures of animals, explaining the pictures.

NORTHERN AUTO TOUR

MRS. REUTER TELLS ENTERTAINING STORY OF TRIP TO YOSEMITE, OTHER POINTS

We left Glendale on July 3d, at 7 a. m., having decided on the coast route. We motored along over familiar roads until we reached Carpinteria which boasts of the largest grape vine in the world, it being 9 feet in circumference. In 1896 it yielded 10 tons of grapes and it is still bearing. Carpinteria is also the home of Stewart Edward White. We traveled leisurely, reaching Santa Barbara at 11:30. We lunched one mile north of Santa Barbara at Chapdale. It was our first attempt at camp cooking and it was some steak, onions and "taters." In Goleta we saw our first federated church, a small, frame building with pretty lawn and flowers and showing every evidence of civic interest. Being tired we decided to make our first stop at Santa Maria.

July 4th, we left Santa Maria at 8:30 having had state highway all along the way. A few miles out of San Luis Obispo we reached the Cueta Grade which is considered quite steep in that part of the country. In King City the high school ground had a fine crop of alfalfa for a lawn. EXPLANATION OF REPORTED FRICTION BETWEEN MEXICAN GOVERNMENT AND BRITISH REPRESENTATIVE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
MEXICO CITY, August 20.—Sensational reports which have been received that the British charge d'affaires, William D. Cummings, has been expelled because he was persona non grata, are denied by the Mexican foreign office. Carranza merely notified the various departments of the government, it is said, of Cummings' unofficial standing because of the British attitude in refusing to recognize the present Mexican administration. It is stated that he ordered the same courtesies to be extended to Cummings that any British subject would receive and the reports of friction are denied.

JOHN W. DEW

QUARTERMASTER 2D CLASS ON "MISSISSIPPI" VISITS PARENTS IN GLENDALE

John William Dew, a jackie of the best type with the rank of Quartermaster, 2d Class, is in Glendale enjoying a thirty-day furlough which will expire September 8th when he will join his ship, the "Mississippi," of which Commander Paul Blackburn is Executive Officer, at San Francisco. He says when he asked for the furlough and told that he was a Glendale boy Commander Blackburn showed interest but he never thought of associating his name with that of the Bob Blackburn, who had been his school-fellow in Glendale High. A visit to Leslie Tarr at San Pedro, who was an enthusiastic booster for the navy, was the spur which caused him to enlist. He has eleven months more to serve and expects then to take his discharge and enter the merchant marine. In the meantime he will study and fit himself for as high a rank as he can attain in that time. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Dew, live at 116 North Isabel street and this is his first visit home in two years. He has served on the battleship "Kansas," but most of the time during the period of the war he was in transport service on the "Peerless," the "E. W. Mallory" and the "Montpelier," which plied between American and French ports, chiefly Bordeaux, St. Nazaire and La Pallice. Once while on the "Kansas" they thought a submarine was sighted, but as there was no attack they could not be sure, for there were many false alarms. He had opportunity to explore the ports named and was allowed a flying trip to Paris, France. Its towns, its people and their customs disappointed him and have made of him a most enthusiastic American. He admits that allowance for war conditions should be made, but he says a comparison of the American sections and the French sections of the port at La Pallice showed the difference. The American portion was well drained, clean and shipshape, while the French waded around in a knee-deep slush of mud and water. He declared that the harbor at San Pedro looked to him quite as fine as that of Bordeaux. When he learned that the fleet was coming to this coast he secured a transfer to the "Mississippi" in order to visit home. He says it is the expectation that the fleet will be sent from this coast to China, Japan and the Orient and that it will get to New York about Christmas time.

MISS MERWA SCOTT ENTERTAINS

Miss Merwa Scott, formerly of Glendale, entertained Monday evening in her new home on Gramercy Place, Los Angeles, Lieuts. Brand and Morris of March Aviation Field, also Miss Genevieve Harken, of Long Beach and Mr. and Mrs. L. Russell Lowman, formerly of Glendale. Lieut. Brand was one of the aviators who gave a reception in the air to the fleet on its arrival and did flying stunts over Exposition Park as a part of the entertainment of the sailors.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

FRIENDS OF MR. AND MRS. C. E. REED GATHER TO BID THEM GODSPEED

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Reed, who have long been residents of Glendale at 309 North Brand boulevard and who recently sold their home, were guests of honor Tuesday evening at a farewell reception given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bright at 319 N. Maryland avenue, when their fellow members in the Baptist Church gathered to the number of sixty to wish them Godspeed in the journey they are making to Oakland, California, to make their home with a son. There is general regret over the departure of these good people who will be greatly missed in the church as they have always been regular in their attendance and active in all church work. Owing to the absence of Pastor Ford the little speech of farewell was made by Rev. Eugene Haines, a former pastor, who presented Mr. and Mrs. Reed with a gift in the form of money as an expression of the love and esteem of friends who wished to show their affection in some practical way. There was also a brief musical program to which Mrs. Neighbors contributed songs as did also A. R. Taylor, a former resident of Glendale and leader of the Baptist choir who now lives in Covina. At the close of the evening, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Mr. and Mrs. Reed expect to leave Friday morning.

NEW INDUSTRY

AMERICAN-AGAR CO. WILL SOON BE OPERATING FIRST AMERICAN PLANT IN THIS CITY

According to Alfred M. Salyer, the American-Agar Company which has leased for a term of years his building on the S. P. tracks erected for a piano factory, will soon be ready to manufacture the sea food known as agar, made from seaweed for which there is a large market in this country, as it is universally handled by drug stores. It has heretofore been imported altogether from Japan. This company will inaugurate its manufacture in America. It is therefore an industry new to this country and one of national interest. For months the company has been making alterations and installing the necessary equipment. Mr. Salyer says they have a refrigerator that is sixty feet long and 14 feet wide with 5000 feet of piping in it. They have been building it for the past two months and when it is completed will duplicate it. Machinery which weighs 6 tons arrived last week from New York and is now being placed, and big power service is being installed. One motor is of 40-horse power and there are others of less capacity. The total installation expenditures will approximate from $30,000 to $40,000. Mr. Salyer declares it is a very strong concern financially, the president being Mr. Matsioka, who was at the head of the Wilmington Cannery. When the factory is in operation they expect to employ about forty white women. Their seaweed is all gathered on this coast.

KENWOOD APARTMENTS SOLD

Through the instrumentality of R. M. Jackson, real estate operator of East Broadway, the Kenwood Apartments at 117 North Kenwood, which have been owned by Miss Leota Woy of Los Angeles, have this week been sold to Miss Edna M. Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lawson, of Casa Verdugo. She and her parents have taken possession and will conduct them hereafter, but are planning to remodel and refurnish them completely. The property consists of four 4-room apartments and the consideration was $6500, nearly all cash. Miss Lawson is a business woman employed in Los Angeles.

IN THE REDWOODS

MR. AND MRS. HOWETH SPEND A DELIGHTFUL WEEK IN SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Howeth of 329 North Orange street returned Sunday from an auto trip to a forest of giant sequoias near Eureka. Mrs. Howeth reports that it is a most beautiful place but a hard trip to reach it. They went by the valley route and returned via the coast boulevards. The roads leading to the park are narrow and steep but the satisfaction one experiences on reaching it pay for the fatigue. They spent a week among the big trees and were sorry not to be able to stay longer. Few of them are perfect. They show the scars of the fires which have gone through the groves and of the blasts from lightning which they have suffered, but are nevertheless most wonderful. The Indians, she says, regard them with veneration and consider them everlasting. They stopped at Santa Cruz and at Monterey where they took the famous 17-mile drive. They had hoped to take in Grant Park as well as Sequoia National Park, as they are quite close together, but there is no immediate connection. To reach the Grant pleasure ground they would have had to double back to Visalia, which they did not feel like doing when their time was limited to two weeks, so that has been saved for another trip. One pleasure of their stay in the park was the friendliness of the wild animals, the deer coming right into camp without fear, and the big black bear also visiting the garbage dumps as they do in the Yellowstone. No one is allowed to carry firearms in the park.

THE VIVRETTS RETURN

James W. Pearson, the real estate operator, reports the sale of the J. W. Graham residence at 337 Hawthorne street to Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Vivrett, who formerly lived in Glendale on Vine street and who sold their home through the agency of Mr. Pearson when they went to Chicago four years ago. On coming back to stay they looked up Mr. Pearson and persuaded him to find a new home for them, and their three boys. The Grahams are going east to visit a son in Pittsburgh.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1919

AN EVEN KEEL

The tendency of a man to get crazy-headed under stress is easier to comment on than it is to correct. And the same thing is characteristic of the crowd, too. The mob spirit is somewhat understood as a matter of psychology. Kipling wrote a notable poem on this very matter of keeping one's head in times of stress. It started with these lines:

"If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you," and ending with the words:

"Yours is the earth and everything that's in it
And, which is more, you'll be a Man, my son."

This is the world's time of stress and a great many individuals and numerous peoples are becoming more or less crazy headed. One instance was noted last week in the news from the ocean port of Genoa, in Italy. A cargo of five million eggs en route from this country to Switzerland was allowed to spoil in the harbor because of disorders that prevented the unloading of the steamer. Yet those same disorders, undoubtedly, were caused by the high prices of food-stuffs which the eggs would have partially relieved somewhere. Crazyheadedness!

Many workers feel, and with more or less justice, that prices have advanced far beyond wages; and so, without developing any farsightedness in the matter, they strike, as they have done today in Southern California, and thus interfere with production and transportation and tend to push up prices on themselves still higher while their wages have been stopped. Crazyheadedness again.

Producers or merchants, or manufacturers see prices around them rise and, with hasty judgment of what the results may be, they naturally follow the trend at some points.

It is a time of testing for everybody concerned. Nobody is quite happy under the present world circumstances. We are just out of a great war, a great orgy of waste and destruction. It is notably a time "for keeping your head when all about you are losing theirs," and perhaps "blaming it on you."

Are you going to "be a man, my son," as the great poet asks of us all, or are you going to get crazyheaded and add your mite to the general sum-total of confusion and near-sightedness?

"VACATION LAND" FOR EVERYBODY

Americans everywhere are invited to make use of the "ideal vacation land" that exists in the national forests. Most of the great woodlands are in the western states, but some are in the east, so that no section of the country is too distant to share in their benefits. The forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture is endeavoring to bring about a full public realization of what the forests offer.

Information on the forests will be furnished to all who apply to the forest supervisors, the district foresters, or to the forest service at Washington, D. C.

A CORPSE HELD FOR DEBT

A corpse was held for debt in Los Angeles Monday, said to be the first incident of the kind on record in the West. It was the body of a woman who had died in an institution and her husband invoked the aid of the law to secure the body for burial. The head of the institution was arrested and jailed.

was our intention to stop at Santa Cruz for a few days, but the beach city could not accommodate the crowd over for the 4th so we made our second stop at Del Monte. We left Del Monte at 7 o'clock and all day we motored through the finest apple valley. That night we spent in San Mateo, and I would like to state it is the prettiest town of the North that we passed through.

July 6th we left San Mateo at 7:30 a. m. and Sunday night we stopped at Sacramento. We saw the capitol and all points of interest.

July 7th we left Sacramento at 11 a. m., reaching Auburn at 3 p. m. Just as we entered Eldorado National Forest we saw the ravine where gold was first discovered in 1849. And I want to say the finest water was everywhere and lots and lots to drink. We camped that night at Crystal Springs.

July 8th we waked refreshed from our first night's sleep in the open and declared ourselves full-fledged campers of the future. All day we passed through scenery incomparable; one bit I recall very distinctly was Kentucky blue grass along the banks of the Yuba River for several miles; fish were leaping in the water and the beautiful forest trees and the mountains of Bear Valley were the background. A few miles further the P. G. & E. Co. has erected an observation tower with an outlook over the entire valley. We arrived at Donner Lake Camp at noon. Donner Lake Camp is without exception the finest camp I have ever seen. It is named for Donner, the pioneer, and a statue has been erected, the base of which is field stones, and the life-sized figures of the Donner family show the stress of the hardship of the early days. It faces the west looking toward the camp. We reached Lake Tahoe at 5 and felt the need of a warm shower and good bed after the dusty roads.

July 9th we left the lake at noon, and had traveled several miles intending to go to Tallac at the other end of the lake, but were caught in a thunder shower and decided to make camp at beautiful Emerald Bay. The waters of the bay are emerald green and I thought it the most beautiful part of the lake seen on our trip.

July 10th we broke camp early and having met congenial folk we decided to make our trip over the high Sierras together. We went by the way of Meyer's Landing and had no cause for regret as the roads were in good condition. We saw Indians at Garberville, Nevada. All day we traveled through Mono National Forest, hot, uninteresting, mostly desert. That night we camped at Devil's Gate, a few miles below where J. C. Fremont stopped in 1844 en route to the Pacific coast.

July 11th we had more travel over Mono county, which has poor roads. At Bridgeport, the county seat, on inquiring for a barber, we were laughingly told "Every man shaves himself here." And then all day we rode in the hot sun, over the desert. Just at sunset we came to Mono Lake and saw reflected in the clear water the famous three Indian heads. That night we camped at Leavine Creek at the foot of Tioga Pass. We were apprehensive of taking the trip over the pass at night.

July 12th we got an early start and the evil reputation of Tioga's road must have been acquired in days gone by; for while the grades were very steep the road-bed was fine. At the top of the pass lies Rhine Dollar Lake at an altitude of 9,400 feet, and we continued to ascend the Sierras until we reached an altitude of 10,000 feet. Then we passed through an open valley where the aspens and cottonwoods looked so green and refreshing after our desert drive. All day we motored through Yosemite and camped that night at Carl Inn in Stanislaus Forest.

July 13th, the next day, five miles above Carl Inn, we saw snow and had a snowball bout. We entered Yosemite at this point again, and our climb begins. Mount Hoffman grade is a 26 per cent. grade. All makes of cars grunted and some balked at it. I have always had a respect for a Ford, but I have a reverence now, for with a few pushes and a kick now and then, it got there as well as the high-powered cars. All day through beautiful scenery we passed and reached the floor of the valley, or Yosemite proper. Then for two weeks we spent long days, never seeing enough of the beauty Yosemite has to offer. Long nights we spent lying in the open, gyping to our hearts' content. The wonders of Yosemite are too numerous to mention and include glaciers, lakes, waterfalls, in fact, everything to be desired. My trip on burro to Glacier Point I shall remember always. When I reached the top and saw before me the awe-inspiring arena of beauty I felt as though I should kneel in homage to God's handiwork. We left Yosemite July 29th by the way of Wawona Road, stopping at Mariposa to see the big sequoia pines.

The first night of our return trip we stopped at Merced. The country was flat and looked strange to us after being so long among the clouds.

The second day we passed through Pleasanton and saw the home of the late Mrs. Phoebe Hearst and that night camped in Niles Canyon, a delightful spot.

The third day we traveled through the "Valley of the Moon" in the Santa Cruz Mountains and here we camped seeing the big red woods and leaving for home on August 7th, stopping at Santa Maria. We came home brown, healthy and happy, having had our fill of ozone and having had a wonderful experience.

As we motored south Mr. Reuter and myself both voted our home city the finest we had passed through and with our first drink of Glendale's good water, said: "Southern California for mine."

MARY L. REUTER.

THE RE-CREATION OF BRIAN KENT

Harold Bell Wright's latest book, "The Re-creation of Brian Kent," is just out and will be on sale shortly. This is another Ozark Mountain story. It is rich in interest and like the author's former books preaches a sermon and brings clearly to the reader's attention many helpful lessons.

Brian Kent is a young bank clerk with literary aspirations. A frivolous and unsympathetic wife accomplishes his downfall. The river in which he hopes to find oblivion carries him to "Auntie Sue," an "old-maid" school teacher, who lives in a cabin on the bank of the river. Auntie Sue's loving care of him and her sweet philosophy of life effect the miracle of his complete re-creation. With her encouragement he writes a book in which he embodies much of what she has taught him about the similarity of life to the river. The book is a success. Of course, to make the story complete, the unfaithful wife finds her death in the river and Brian Kent finds Betty-Jo.

COUNTY BUDGET OVER SEVEN MILLION DOLLARS

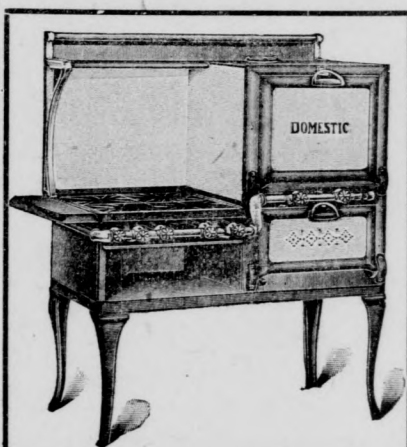

A book of 112 large pages sent out with the compliments of Jonathan S. Dodge, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors gives a mass of figures regarding the budget for the fiscal year of 1919-1920. The figures are too numerous and too complicated for a business man to wade through, but the gist of it all seems to be that the estimated revenue of the county for the time specified is $7,534,128.52 and that the supervisors have their plans outlined for spending it.

KANSAS PICNIC

It is expected that a large proportion of the 40,000 Jayhawkers in Southern California will attend the regular fall picnic at Long Beach which has been set for Saturday, September 13th. Following the noon dinner there will be a brief program. As usual there will be county registers to enable picnicers to locate their old friends.

Olive growers of the Redlands section estimate a 25 per cent. increase in their crop this year over last.

Fullerton, Cal., is soon to have a new bank.
